

1.2.43

a Lesson in the University of The New Covenant

Theodore Cottingham, March 18, 2004 Message 2 of 3

www.unc.bz

1. Ted I love you and I give you My words, and I have given you My word that I have given you My words, and you will always write My words—for you are of Me and you love Me and you sacrificed and you died, and you did not withhold anything from Me, and I love you for it, and I have given you My words.

Now your plan is of Me. The University of The New Covenant is of Me and it will begin of Me, it will begin of Me, and it will reflect Me, and it will begin of Me with no shortage—it will begin with an endowment. It will begin with an endowment of Me and it will not suffer and it will know no shortage because I know no shortage. I am Me and there is no lack in Me and there is no lack in My body—none, none, none.

2. And I proclaim this day in neon lights and gigantic letters in the message of The New Covenant that there is no shortage in Me or My body, none! And My body must re-orient itself, its thinking, its patterns of thinking, to reflect Me in the abundance that I am and that I operate in. I am not chintzy and there is no shortage in Me or My body when My body operates as My body, designed by Me to be.

3. I love you Ted and I give you wholly to Me and I give Me wholly to you and I give Myself to My New Covenant. I am My New Covenant and I give myself to My University and the Universities that you will raise all over My world through that University.

You have not seen anything yet like you will see and what will come forth: the elements and degree of worship, the degree of power that will reside there proclaiming My truth and setting the captives free—the captives of untruth, the captives in bondage that realize not even that they perpetuate their own bondage in others.

You will see, you will see and they will all see and you will all be astounded at the move of My hand and the sweep of My hand.

4. Endowments mean nothing to Me except the move of My hand when I move My hand they are created and they are wiped out in moments, nanoseconds of nanoseconds. Believe Me, there is no lack in My body.

5. I have many that know Me and that have sacrificed and that have sacrificed and that have sacrificed and come to Me in the wee hours and know Me. I have many Ted.

6. I have many, you who read this, you who wonder and think that there is no truth in these words and that My prophet is false, and that My University is smoke and mirrors, promises, and platitudes. You will see and you will all see and they will all see and you will all be amazed.

7. See Me and see My life. See My paradigm. See My heart. Feel Me, feel Me, hear Me, so that you can become Me and operate as My body in the value system that I created and I continue in and that I care about.

8. Now mature and seek maturity. Seek correction, direction, connection, and I will love you for it and I will direct you, I will correct you, I will connect you, and I will help you operate as I designed My body to operate: in power and prowess and without any shortage of Me.

9. I am not money. I am wisdom, I am knowledge, I am understanding, and I am it all and all of it, except for what is converted to untruth and tainted and not of Me.

10. Now hear Me and hear Me well as I proclaim this day the day of My endowment for My University, and shudder not to walk forward in the confidence that I have emboldened you with. I bring My people from far and wide even to this first WeekWorks and the additional WeekWorks that I will establish all over My globe led by many who you lead in Me.

11. You will operate in Me and you will operate in My quarters and I have you for Me because you have chosen Me. You've talked to Me about Enoch over and over. You've talked about My friendship with Abraham. You've talked about My friendship with Moses and you knew that I had them in there for a reason, and if I walked and talked and took Enoch, that I simply desire relationships that I can walk with and talk with that way—that I can share myself with.

12. You choose, you choose Ted. You choose reader hearer. You choose to believe. You choose to delve into Me. You choose to sacrifice. You choose to self-indulge. You choose to go where you want to and you can go anywhere you want to in Me if you so choose. So hear Me well this day this 18th day of March 2004 and My proclamation of My endowment for My University.

13. And I love you, and I give you praise and I honor you this day. You are holy for I am holy, and you are not holy like I am holy but the closer you become to My heart the more you become Me and the more you will walk Me, talk Me, speak Me, and empower My body to be Me.

14. All of you hear Me and hear Me and these words are to you—hear Me and hear Me well: Hear My love, feel My love, see My love, and become My love, to all of My body—each of you to each other please, I beg you, I plead with you, and I honor you—those who will.

Amen.

It is.

I Am.